My Dear Sir: I am an old coin collector and have just come across an ancient gold coin. It is a Greek Tessaly about 200 to 400 B.C., according to a statement of a Professor from Lehigh University who examined it. It is a little over one-eighth of an inch thick and almost the size of a quarter. I also have a Great Bronze of Domitian, roman coin 81 to 96 A.D. I am interested to add to the museum's collection of coins communicate with me as soon as possible. I am
